

RACES FOR THE FOURTH

The Bicyclists Will Have a Great Program for that Day.

Two Great Races in the Morning—Officers of the Course Chosen and All Arrangements Completed for a Proper Celebration of the Holiday.

At a meeting of the Decatur Cycling club last night at their rooms in Haworth Block it was decided to hold two races on the morning of the Fourth of July, at the Decatur Trotting association track. The first is to be a five-mile handicap race, and the second a fifteen-mile handicap race. The first race will be called at 10:30 o'clock sharp. The permission of the race track managers was secured this morning to hold the races at the track and everything now indicates that it will be a most successful event. An admission fee at the gate of fifteen cents will be charged to defray the expenses of the occasion. At a meeting of the executive committee, consisting of W. S. Ruby, A. S. Robinson, E. S. Dodd, C. O. Post and Harry Shilandman, held this morning, the following officers of the course were selected:

Referee: Judge E. P. Vail.
Starter: F. S. Dodd.
Judges: C. M. Hunt, Paul Hietisch and A. S. Robinson.
Clerk: Luther Shilandman.
Umpire: Sam Backlund, with power to select two assistants.

Sealers: As yet no offer, but will be chosen on the morning of the race.

Times: Frank Curtis, Charles Powers and C. H. Housman.

Announcer: A. S. Robinson.

Committee: F. S. Dodd, E. M. Mueller, C. M. Hunt and A. S. Robinson.

The entries opened this morning at the office of Dodd, Sumner & Co., and will close Saturday evening July 2, at 9 o'clock. An entry fee of 25 cents will be charged for each race.

The referee's privilege has been awarded to A. S. Ruby, who will employ a sufficient number of assistants to supply everything.

The managers desire that all those who wish to enter the races to do so at once and not wait until the last moment, as has heretofore been the custom of a great many.

It is quite probable that Goodman's Band will be present and furnish music during the races, and that there will be a bicycle parade to the grounds about 8:30 on the morning of the race.

The Decatur cycling club in their endeavor to furnish amusement for the Decatur people on the Fourth, should be enthusiastically encouraged by the people in this city. Had not the club taken the matter in hand the day would have passed unnoticed so far as any attractions or amusements are concerned. Therefore it is the duty of every wheelman and every wheelman's friend to put his best to the point and help push the event and make it the grand success the effort deserves.

TO SPRINGFIELD SUNDAY.

The Turners Will Go on a Special Train One Dollar Fare.

The Decatur Turners and all friends who may wish to go along will go to Springfield, Sunday, June 23rd, on a special Wabash train. Train will leave at 8 a. m. and will stop at Water street. That will be the only stop. The train will go through to Springfield direct, and returning will leave the capital at 9:30 p. m. Goodman's band will be on the train. Everybody is invited to go along. Going and returning the cost of order is guaranteed by the management. 2341

AN AWFUL ACCIDENT.

Twenty-Five Persons Drowned Off Atlantic Highlands

BY THE SINKING OF A PLEASURE TUG

Returning with a Party of Excursionists from the Fishing Banks of Sea Bright, N. J., to New York City.

NEW YORK, June 24.—The tug James D. Nichols, owned by Wm. Reeves, of this city, foundered off the Atlantic Highlands shortly before 1 o'clock this afternoon. The Nichols had on board a party of excursionists numbering sixty-eight persons, and also a crew of five men. As near as can be learned at this writing forty-eight persons were rescued by the steamer Algonquin, of the Clyde line, and the tugs Governor, Wallace B. Flint and R. J. Morgan. This leaves twenty-five persons unaccounted for and these have probably been drowned. The names of the victims have not all been learned yet, and it will probably be several days before a complete list of the dead can be gathered. A partial list follows:

The tug Nichols was chartered by an association known as the Herring Fishing club, whose headquarters are at 55 First avenue, this city. The tug, with the party on board, left the foot of Fifth street, East river, at 7:30 o'clock this morning. She stopped at pier 3 on her way to the fishing banks of Sea Bright, N. J., where several more persons were taken on board.

There was a quantity of beer aboard, but from the accounts of the rescued passengers no one was intoxicated.

The Nichols passed on down through the narrows, and then moved over to the fishing banks. She arrived there about 9:30. Here the excursionists fished until about noon, when the start for the homeward journey was made.

As the tug proceeded on her course toward the city, the wind freshened to some extent, and the waves rolled higher. The change in the weather and sea seemed not to affect the craft or the spirits of those on board of her. The steamer Algonquin, of the Clyde line, passed the tug and the latter followed in the wake of the big steamer. At that time there appeared to be nothing amiss on the Nichols. But in a half hour the situation was completely changed. The big waves became more boisterous and dashed up against the sides of the tug, throwing spray over the excursionists who were on the deck.

Here, where the trouble commenced, the stories as to what next happened, begin to conflict. According to one chapter of the narratives, the fisherman, to avoid getting wet, moved around to the side of the vessel, where the waves did not strike with such force and it is claimed by some that with the increased weight on one side the tug toppled over and the water ran into her to such an extent that it became impossible to navigate her. She struggled for a short distance and then, as the water continued to roll into her, she sank further and further into the swells and went down.

Others say that the shifting of the passengers had nothing to do with the accident. These allege that the tug was an old and rotten affair; that she was terribly overcrowded and consequently topheavy, and that when she got into the heavy sea she simply went over.

As nearly as can be ascertained, twenty-four persons or thereabouts were drowned. The figures are secured by estimates from the number of persons who were aboard and the number who were saved.

When the accident occurred the Algonquin, which was headed for New York on her journey from Jacksonville and Charleston, had reached a point about four miles southeast of Scotland lightship. It was just 12:45 p. m., according to her officers, when the scream of a whistle, given in such a way as to denote distress, came over the sea. It reached the ears of Capt. Samuel Platt, who was standing on the bridge. The captain observed the big tug rolling and pitching on the waves. With the aid of his glasses he saw the craft was crowded with people, and that she was on the point of foundering.

He signalled the engine room. A moment later the big ship was in the face of the wind, rolling easily on the big waves. Before the screws of the ship had ceased their revolutions, an order had been issued to First Officer Rich to lower and man the life boat. The command was quickly executed. Boat No. 4, on the port side of the steamer, was hurriedly swung from its davits and Officer Rich, accompanied by four seamen, scrambled into it.

It was a dangerous task, but it was accomplished, and the people on the big steamer looked over to where they had seen the tug. As they did so the little vessel careened away over to the starboard and her smokestack almost touched the crest of a wave. Just at this time another big whitecap came rolling along, and striking the tug sent her over the other way. Thus the waters played with her for a minute or more, and then she went to the bottom. As she sank out of sight the top of the wheelhouse, together with a raft and a lifeboat, remained floating on the water. To every particle of wreckage along one or more of the drowning people. The raft was the most sought for, and those who were so fortunate as to make it were saved.

As soon as the Algonquin's boat reached the scene of the accident and commenced the work of rescue, she was joined in her labor by three tugs—the Governor, the Wallace B. Flint, and the R. J. Morgan. All of these vessels had been cruising in the vicinity when the tug that had passed beneath the waters first sent up her whistle of distress. They responded to the call, and though they were further away at the time than was the Algonquin, reached the drowning people about the same time as did the steamer's crew. Together they commenced to take the people from the water and from the raft. Everyone was cool and collected and in less than twenty minutes from the time the rescuers arrived those who remained afloat had reached havens of safety.

The Moran confined its attention to those on the raft. These, together with the few that it had picked up from the water numbered thirty-four. The Algonquin's crew secured nine, while the Governor and the Flint also got a number on board their respective boats. The lost tug's lifeboat was found floating about by the Algonquin's crew. It was full of water and had evidently been overturned many times. In the bottom of it, however, tangled in ropes, was found the body of a man. Whoever he was, he had probably prepared for the plunge into the sea. His coat was off and his shirtsleeves rolled up to his shoulders. Efforts were made to revive the spark of life that was at first thought to still be within him, but they were unavailing.

When the crew from the Algonquin had picked up all they could carry in their life boat—nine living and one dead—they put back to the vessel, which had in the meantime been put about and was lying not far from the point where the accident had occurred. It was far too rough to attempt to bring the rescued on board the steamship; a line was thrown to the life boat and she was towed to quarantine. At the latter place they were brought to the Algonquin's deck. Later they were brought up to the city by the steamer. The tug which had assisted in the rescue had also brought to the city the survivors they had picked up.

REMARKABLE PERFORMANCES.

The Test of Projectiles at Indian Head Proving Grounds Saturday.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—In a test of projectiles against old armor plates (not harveized) yesterday at Indian Head proving grounds, some astounding results were obtained. A 13-inch Carpenter projectile, weighing half a ton went clear through a 17-inch nickel-steel plate with its customary backing. Another, after plowing its way through the sand butts against which the plate was bedded, was finally recovered unbroken and to all intents as good as new in the woods 500 yards away.

A Wheeler-Sterling shell of the same dimensions, was also fired under similar conditions, piercing the plate and backing and going into the butt, whence it has not been recovered, so it is not known whether it received any injury. This remarkable performance of two shells furnished by different makers shows what a tremendous engine of destruction the United States secured in its 13-inch gun, which has rather aptly been christened "the peace-maker."

The shells weighed 1,100 pounds each and it is thought from their behavior yesterday that the "peace-maker" could drive them through the greatest battleship ever built. Yesterday's test was for the acceptance of fifty similar projectiles from each of the contractors.

Col. Conger's Effusions.

New York Recorder: Colonel A. L. Conger of Ohio, would very much oblige the majority of his countrymen by keeping his views on the next Republican Presidential campaign entirely to himself. No one is in the least interested in them, for the very good reason that they are of no consequence what-

The Democratic county convention reaffirmed the principles of the last state and national Democratic platforms, and also endorsed the course of Congressman Springer in congress. The national Democratic platform declared in favor of "wild cat" money, and Congressman Springer fought that Democratic principle in congress. Just how the action of the county convention can be reconciled with these facts is a trifle hard to understand. The same is true as to silver and the "promised" tariff reform.

The Republican convention in Cook county Thursday did not seem to be much afraid of losing votes by endorsing the McKinley tariff act. In their ringing resolutions they endorsed that act in plain and unequivocal terms, and denounced the present attempt of the Democrats in congress to disturb it, as the cause of our present business prostration. One of the declarations was to the effect that under the McKinley tariff act the country enjoyed the greatest prosperity it ever enjoyed in its history.

CHAIRMAN C. C. LEFORS in his speech on taking the chair at the Democratic county convention was very emphatic in his statement that the present business disturbances are not due to Democratic legislation. He is altogether correct in this assumption, for so far the Democrats have been unable to legislate upon any question that affects the business of the country, for the very plain reason that it is mighty hard to find a dozen Democrats in congress that can agree upon any public question except such measures as open the doors to frauds at the polls, and that is what is troubling the country.

When A. G. Webber was appointed to head the committee on resolutions a large number of delegates became very uneasy, as they suspected his appointment meant the reporting of a resolution endorsing Algeid, and had such a resolution been reported there would have been some music, as a large number of the delegates were not prepared to permit any such a resolution to pass. The proposition to endorse Algeid was killed in the committee, or rather modified so as simply to commend the administration for its reforms and its economy in administering the affairs of the state, a matter that not a single delegate knew anything about, as no delegate can be known of how the financial affairs of our state institutions have been managed until the legislature convenes and hears the reports of those having them in charge.

The Democratic Convention.

The Democratic county convention held Saturday for the purpose of selecting delegates to the state, congressional and senatorial conventions, was all that the name implies. Everything was thoroughly prepared beforehand and laid away in the refrigerator where it would not sour until the hour for the picnic arrived, when it was brought out and distributed by those who prepared it in a systematic and orderly way. No crumbs were left on the grass and there were no flies to trouble the outing.

Certain captains started out to accomplish certain things, and they went at it a good deal as Herod did when he slew all the male children in order to make sure that the one he desired to destroy should not escape. But here the parallel ends. Herod failed to destroy the child whose life he sought, but those who started out to get a delegation for Senator Mancke made no failure. They got what they went after.

But to do this it became necessary to select the delegates to the congressional and state convention in the same way that was necessary to secure a sure thing on the matter of the Mancke delegation, and the result was that the delegates to all the conventions were selected by five men, and this being the case the convention might as well have consisted of only these five men. Outside of the appearance of things, the remainder of the convention was a waste of time and money.

Of course it would not be fair to dismiss this subject without stating that there was some kicking at the methods of the close corporation, but the only thing the kickers gained was a little exercise of brain power and muscle. Robert I. Hunt and Maj. Williams and several other gentlemen protested that such methods were un-Democratic, but the wheels revolved just the same. The trouble with the protests lies in the fact that almost everything which is done by the Democratic party is un-Democratic, and this convention was no exception. It is this that is troubling Senator Hill. Twice last week that gentleman vehemently charged his party in congress with resorting to un-Democratic methods. He charged them with doing those things that would defeat the party in every northern state, and showed them how by such methods the party had become the third party in Oregon.

It is the un-Democratic methods which that party resorts to that renders it powerless to do anything good when in power, or to retain power after it has got it. The party pays no attention to Hill and it paid no attention to Mr. Hunt and Maj. Williams.

MARK FROM THE TOMBS.

Conviction of Voters Who Came From New York's Delinquent Prison.

Three men were convicted in the court of oyer and terminer on Monday (two of them pleaded guilty) of the offense of voting from the Tombs in violation of section 3 of article 3 of the state constitution, which declares that "no person shall be deemed to have gained or lost a residence by reason of his presence or absence while in the service of the United States, or while kept in any almshouse or other asylum at public expense, or while confined in any public prison."

The case of the defendant Cady, who was found guilty by a jury, was peculiar. He had voluntarily resided for seven years, without commitment for any offense, in the Tombs. He had no other home. He was not qualified to vote from any other domicile. He registered and voted from the city prison, from which he readily obtained egress, and he was tried and convicted. Judge Barrett announced, however, that he would give a certificate of reasonable doubt, so that the question whether a man without a home, except such as he obtains for himself in a city prison, is actually and totally disfranchised, might be decided by a higher court. The situation is certainly an odd one.—New York Sun.

VEAL AT THE CAMP MEETING

Sunday Incidents at Oakland Park
—"Return of the Prodigal Son."

The chief point of interest in Decatur
Sunday, aside from the regular services held at the churches, was Oakland Park, where the Baptist colored camp meeting was in progress. The crowds did not begin to flock there until along in the afternoon, at the hour when it had been advertised the ministers in charge would give a realistic representation of the "Return of the Prodigal Son." All of the seats beneath the big pavilion were taken at 3 o'clock by white and colored, and many persons promenaded or sat beneath the shade of the big trees. Every car to the Park was crowded.

The Italian orchestra was on the platform and alternated with the camp meeting choir in furnishing music which was a very attractive feature of the service.

Rev. James Thomas, the southern exhorter, gave the sermon on "The Prodigal Son," picturing in his quaint way what the unfaithful and ungrateful boy had done in wandering away from his home-how he had suffered in body and mind, and how at the last when he had lost all friends and was in great despair, he had resolved to return to his father's house and plead for forgiveness. Pointed lessons were drawn from the story, and at the proper moment a young colored man in rags with his small bundle of personal belongings came toward the pavilion. He tramped it from the north through the rank weeds in the old lake, and apparently nearly worn out by his walk from a far off country, he reached the platform in an exhausted state, throwing himself prostrate at the feet of his father. He acknowledged his error, and pleaded in broken tones for forgiveness and for shelter. The father welcomed him with open arms and the son was nearly overcome with joy. The welcome was more than he expected, and there was great joy in his heart and among his people who had thought him lost in the whirlpool of sin forever.

The fatted calf which goes with the Bible story had been caught and killed, but the juicy veal was not served at the tent. It was announced that roasted chunks of the calf could be had at the refreshment pavilion to the east of the tent, and an adjournment was taken that all might enjoy the feast. The veal was served by colored young men from a table placed at the edge of the pavilion, but there were no plates, forks, napkins or finger bowls. Everybody who wanted a piece of the fatted calf filed along in turn and took a chunk in their fingers.
White and colored people sampled the veal and pronounced it good. Some went back for more, and then they didn't go home to supper, remaining for the evening service.

At night there was another big crowd out, but at about 9 o'clock there was a general scamper to escape general bat-tism by the rain.

It was announced that owing to the great interest that had been awakened, the camp meeting would continue for another week. Services to night as usual.

Possibly the parable of the Ten Vir-gins will be repeated dramatically this week, when if possible the requisite number of young ladies will be procured

for the representation.

A Boy Hurt.

Sunday forenoon a team attached to

Sam D. Leedy's Columbia dairy wagon, open sides, took fright in front of the American Express office and ran away.

Willie Leedy, aged 10 years, was in the wagon with the milk cans. As the team came tearing around on Water street, going south, Willie cried for help, and the next moment he was thrown out on pavement, receiving an ugly cut on the head. He was taken to Dr. Hostetler's

Need.

The will of the late Julia Bullock, of Providence, bequeaths forty thousand dollars to charitable, educational and religious institutions in Rhode Island.

There are more than two thousand girl students at present in the London Guildhall school of music, and of these about three hundred are studying the violin.

CLARA BARTON and her noble associates of the Red Cross have carried those thousands of poor people on the sea islands through the winter and spring on less than thirty-five thousand dollars.

Miss MARY FILDBROOK, of Hoboken, the first woman to apply to the New Jersey supreme court for examination for admission to practice as an attorney at law, failed to receive the privilege.

Mrs. JULIA J. IRVIN, a graduate of Cornell university, is understood to be as good as elected as next president of Wellesley college, where she has been professor of Greek for the last four years.

A TWENTY-THREE-YEAR-OLD woman of Newark, N. J., some time ago married a dapper youth of twenty-five. She thinks she needs but one thing more now to complete her happiness, and that is a divorce.

FOREIGN NOTES.

The body of the late Edmund Yates, editor of the London World, was cremated in accordance with his desire.

"GEN." BOOTH, commander in chief of the Salvation Army, says, and says it emphatically, that he never reads the newspapers.

It is about thirty miles across town in London, and for that entire distance there is said to be an unbroken line of residences and stores.

RAILWAY employees in England are now instructed in first aid to the injured under the auspices of the St. John's Ambulance association.

Six corpses on the ballroom floor was the result of a little difference of opinion among the dancers at a ball in an Austrian village some weeks ago.

The renting of portions of the sidewalk in Paris to proprietors of cafes, who set out tables there, brings in a rental to the city of nine hundred thousand francs a year.

A WOMAN bicyclist, Signora Maria Forzani, recently rode from Turin to Milan, a distance of one hundred and fifty kilometres, in eight and a half hours, with one hour's rest included.

PARISIANS are intensely fond of canaries and other pet birds. It is estimated, figuring on the amount spent for bird food at the regular stores, that there are fully one hundred thousand pet birds in the city, or one to every twentieth individual, including babies.

BOOKS AND AUTHORS.

A VOLUME of purely literary essays by the late Phillips Brooks is announced for autumn publication.

It is reported that Mr. Barrie, the author of "The Little Minister" and "A Window in Thrums," is seriously ill from lung trouble in London.

Mr. HENRY FULLER, the author of "The Cavalier of Pensieri-Vani" and "The Cliff-Dwellers," who has sailed for Europe, has just finished another novel concerning Ochozo.

LIEUT. Mr. Austin Dobson, who, as Henry A. Dobson, receives pay as a clerk of the board of trade, the late Edmund Yates, the editor of the London World, had a business as well as a pen name. For a long time he was chief of the lost letter department at the London post office, and was known in the service as E. Hodgson Yates.

It seems that there is really a labor journal in England called "The Clarion," whose editors say that its success has been lessened by the description in "Marcella" of a labor organ bearing the same title but of a different character. Mrs. Ward replies that she of course supposed the name to be one of her own coining, but courteously offers to change it when her book passes into a cheap edition.

CHURCH AND CLERGY.

POPE LEO XIII. has just completed a book reviewing his pontificate.

It is said that Protestant Christianity is growing in India as fast as it is in this country.

OVER Mr. Gladstone's bedstead is hung the motto: "Christian, Remember What Thou Hast to Do."

It is estimated that there are over three million people in London who never enter a place of worship.

The largest Sunday school library in the world is in Washington, D. C., the property of the Assembly Presbyterian church.

REV. WILLIAM MAY, of Perryville, Ky., has preached the gospel for sixty years and has never accepted a dollar for his services.

It is said that when Tennyson was asked what his highest aim was he replied: "My supreme wish is to get a clearer vision of God."

Mr. MOODY receives a royalty of twenty per cent. from the publishers of "Gospel Hymns," and since the first publication of the collection this royalty amounts to one million two hundred and fifty thousand dollars.

Miss FANNIE EDWARDS, the girl evangelist of Louisville, Ky., is reported to have saved one thousand souls in Ohio and Indiana. She is eighteen years of age and lets her long hair hang down over her shoulders.

REV. WATSON T. MOSER, of Brooklyn, who has been pastor of the Grace Baptist church for the last year, receives no regular salary, only asking pay when he needs money. His ecclesiastical brethren do not approve of his method.

PEOPLE WHO WRITE.

J. M. BARRE, the novelist, is reported seriously ill from lung trouble in London.

COUNT Tolstoy is writing a "cosmopolitan drama" which he says is to be the last of his works.

ESOTIC critics are finding fault with Mr. Gladstone's translation of Horace. They say that Gladstone's Horace is very stiff and very pedantic.

ROSA YOUNG, a direct descendant of one of the Pitcairn mutineers and a woman of more than usual intelligence, is writing a history of the Pitcairn colony.

Mrs. JULIA WARD HOWE celebrated her seven-fiftieth anniversary recently. She is at this ripe age in the full possession of her faculties, and is rejoicing in a beautiful and vigorous old age.

It is reported that some old-fashioned English people who have met Rudyard Kipling during his present visit to England are pained at what they consider evidence of Americanization in his manners.

ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON has grown thin to emaciation. His wrist is now so thin as to look, it is said, as if a child could break it in two. His lean body has become visibly leaner, and his face is so sharp at the chin as to give a V-shaped appearance to his physiognomy.

MUCH IN LITTLE

When real nobleness accompanies the imaginary one of birth, the imaginary seems to mix with the real and become real, too.—Greville.

Posthumous charities are the very essence of selfishness, when bequeathed by those who, when alive, would part with nothing.—Colton.

WHAT sad faces one always sees in the asylum for orphans! It is more fatal to neglect the heart than the head.—Theodore Parker.

IGNORANCE is a mere privation, by which nothing can be produced; it is a vanity, in which the soul is motionless and torpid for want of attraction.—Johnson.

The method of the enterprising is to plan with audacity and execute with vigor; to sketch out a map of possibilities and then to treat them as probabilities.—Dove.

In all worldly things that a man pursues with the greatest eagerness, he finds not half the pleasure in the possession that he proposed to himself in the expectation.—South.

NOTES OF COMMERCE.

NEW GUINEA yields large quantities of copra from the palms which grow wild.

NEWFOUNDLAND contributes codfish, codliver oil, lobster, sealskins and copper.
